Kennedy to seek Senate job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts announced Monday his candidacy for the post of assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, a job now held by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.

The last of the Kennedy brothers said in a statement that he is seeking the office "with the support and encouragement" of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Long's office issued a statement quoting him as saying, "I welcome the challenge in good humor." Win or lose, he said, his friendship with Kennedy will not be impaired.

Kennedy's entrance into the leadership contest appeared likely to open the door for a clash between Senate Democrats who list themselves as liberals — backing Kennedy — and their more conservative colleagues, principally from the South, favoring Long.

The Massachusetts Senator, serving his first full term, said that Humphrey, the 1968 Democratic presidential nominee, as well as other Democratic colleagues feel that the elections of last November "have obligated the Democratic majority in the Senate to offer sound and new legislation in the interest of all the people of the United States."

Long, who heads the powerful Senate Finance Committee, at times has been at odds with the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson. He irritated some of his colleagues with lengthy and unsuccessful efforts earlier in the year to get a campaign financing bill passed.

Trygve Lie

Trygve H. Lie, UN pioneer, dies at 72

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Trygve H. Lie, the husky Norwegian Socialist who shepherded the United Nations through eight hazardous years as its first secretary-general, died Monday at a ski resort in his homeland. He was 72.

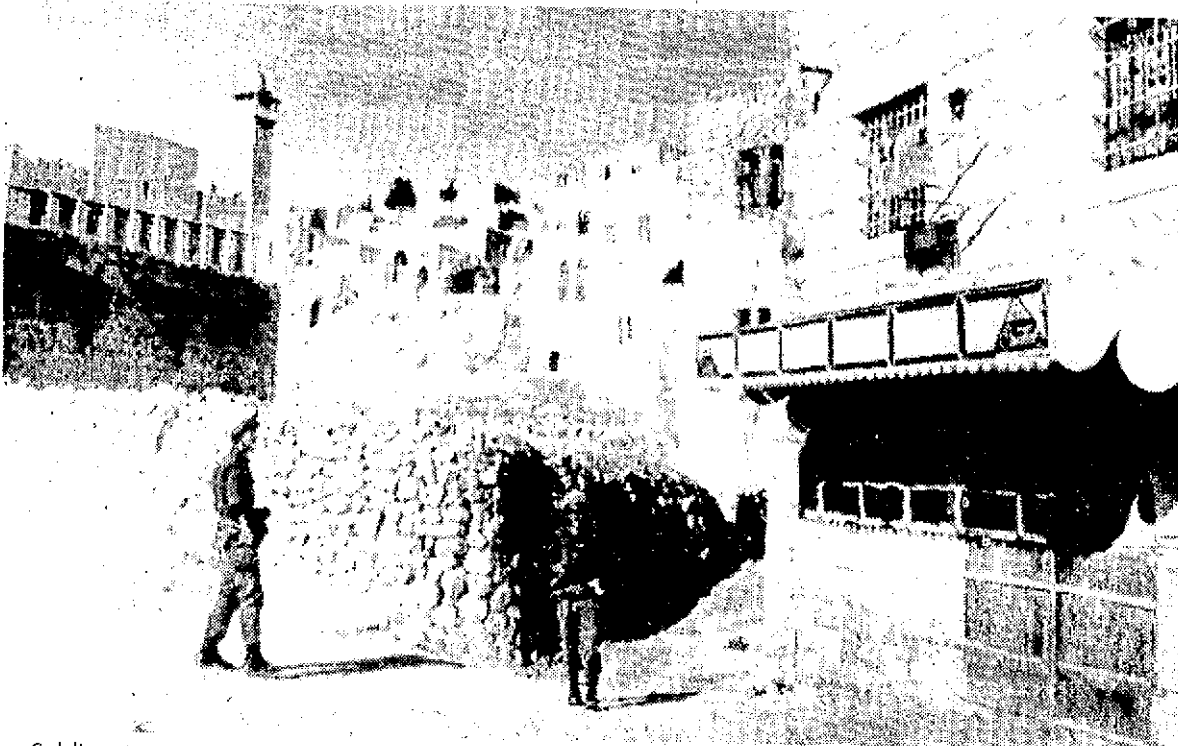

Beset by heart trouble in recent months, Lie was fatally stricken in a chair in the dining room of a hunting lodge at Geilo, in the Halingskary Mountains 100 miles northwest of Oslo.

Dr. Thor Hval, a Geilo physician, said he died instantly, probably "of paralyzation of the heart."

Lie, who had called off several engagements lately because he did not feel well, made the trip to Geilo Christmas Day with one of his three daughters, Mrs. Sisel Bratz.

Friends said Mrs. Bratz had left the table at which they were dining and when she returned she found her father dead.

The other daughters—Mrs. Guri Zeckendorf of New York and Mrs. Mette Holst of Scarsdale, N.Y.—booked passage for Oslo on a Scandinavian Airlines System flight Monday night.

Commando attack denounced

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Security Council convened in urgent session Monday night for the second time in 24 hours with Israel facing condemnation for the reprisal commando strike on Beirut's International Airport.

A day of private consultations failed to produce a formal resolution for the 15-nation council, and none was expected until Tuesday.

There was agreement on condemnation, but differences arose over whether the council should ask Israel to pay compensation for planes damaged in the raid.

The question in private consultations was just how tough the resolution could be and still win desired unanimous approval.

The council met Sunday night in the wake of the attack Saturday on the Beirut airport that resulted in destruction of more than half of Lebanon's civil airlines fleet—13 cargo and passenger planes.

Unofficial estimates of the loss ranged from $18 million to $48 million. In London, a spokesman for Lloyd's, the insurance firm, said it would pay about $3.1 million as its share of a claim by Middle East Airlines, Lebanon's flag fleet.

Israel said the attack was in retaliation for the raid on an El Al airliner in Athens last Thursday by two Arab guerrillas. One Israeli passenger was killed and the Israeli airliner damaged. The two Arabs were held for trial in the Greek capital and remained in jail there.

In Beirut, an Arab guerrilla organization threatened to retaliate against Israel for its attack, "in the manner we see fit."

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, whose attack on the El Al airliner in Athens triggered the Israeli response, indicated that its next strike would center again on Israeli civil aviation.

Midwestern temperatures take plunge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A major storm rolled into the Midwest Monday, spreading snow and signaling a sharp drop in temperatures.

Far to the west, the mercury shrank early in the day to record lows for December in some communities — among them -33 in Kalispell, Mont., and -23 in Spokane, Wash.

Snow fell from the Dakotas and Oklahoma eastward to Wisconsin and Illinois.

Cold wave warnings were issued for a huge area, extending from a Minnesota-to-Texas line eastward to Illinois and Indiana.

Thermometers registered -39 in Lewistown, Mont., -33 in Bismarck, N.D., -28 in Casper, Wyo., -21 in Rapid City, S.D., and -12 in North Platte, Neb., early Monday.

Many businesses in northern Idaho delayed opening until afternoon Monday because workers couldn't get their cars started. In Moscow, in that area, the temperature plunged to -42 after a Saturday storm dumped 16 inches of snow.

State offices in Salem, Ore., and stores in many cities in the state closed early Monday. Portland felt the chill of 9 above zero weather at noon while winds up to 30 m.p.h. blew snow through the city. Temperatures ranged down to -20 in the Blue Mountains of northeastern Oregon. Snow drifts formed in western Oregon, which often gets through winter without snow.

Crews hampered by icy roads worked to restore power and telephone service in eastern lower Michigan.

Spacemen tell about moon flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The Apollo 8 astronauts kept talking hour after hour into tape recorders Monday, reviewing for space officials and scientists the flight that took them around the moon and back.

Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. William A. Anders started Monday a two-day-long review in detail of their six-day mission for crew training officials while other space specialists waited their turn.

The de-briefing process started Sunday and is expected to continue through Jan. 8. The crew's only break will come Jan. 1, their first day off "in many, many weeks," a space official said.

The first group of pictures of the moon and of the earth from around the moon were made public by the space agency Sunday night and more were expected throughout the week.

The "Freedom Road" plan was a surprise element of American officials' consent Monday to a second paddyfield session to discuss the enemy's release of the POWs. Spec. 4 James W. Brigham of Ocala, Fla., Spec. 4 Thomas N. Jones of Lynville, Ind., and Pfc. Donald G. Smith of Akron, Pa.

It clearly was intended to force the Viet Cong's hand in view of the enemy claim that the three already have been set free and their delivery into American hands awaits only U.S. compliance with certain preliminary "formalities."

The first meeting, on Christmas Day, broke down after 2½ hours over the refusal of the five-man American delegation to discuss procedures which included a Viet Cong demand that they sit around a negotiating table at the jungle's edge.

The New Year's Day meeting will take place at 9 a.m. Saigon time in the same field in war-battered Tay Ninh Province, 50 miles northwest of Saigon and about three miles from frontier territory of Cambodia, an avowedly neutral nation that enemy troops use as a haven.

In agreeing to the second meeting, the U.S. Command made clear that it believes the POWs are being held in Cambodia and said it "sees no reason why the three prisoners cannot be produced" at that time.

Two Pueblo survivors tell tale of sadistic beatings

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two Pueblo crewmen said Monday they were terrorized and beaten throughout 11 months of imprisonment in North Korea. One said he once was struck at least 250 times with fists and boards, including a two-by-two that broke.

The beatings intensified, they told a news conference, when their captors learned in December that crewmen had tricked them by making defiant hand gestures in a photograph published around the world.

As Quartermaster 1.C. Charles Z. Law, 27, and Radioman 2.C. Lee R. Hayes, 26, spoke to newsmen at San Diego Naval Hospital, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford ordered Secretary of the Navy Paul Ignatius to "conduct an inquiry into the treatment of the crew on the USS Pueblo by the North Korean authorities."

And, in another development, the chairman of the Senate

Charles Law

Lee Roy Hayes

Armed Services Committee said he will ask the Navy for copies of orders given to the Pueblo's commander, Sen. Richard B.

Russell said he wants to determine why the craft wasn't scuttled. Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the intelligence ship, seized last Jan. 23 off North Korea, previously had also said he and his 81 shipmates were beaten and terrorized. The crew, released a week ago, returned here Christmas Eve for debriefing by the navy. Law and Hayes were the first enlisted men to describe their captivity.

Law, of Chehalis, Wash., said that on Dec. 12, while being interrogated by four Korean officers and a guard, he was beaten and kicked unmercifully.

At first, he said, "I was mostly cuffed around the head and neck a little bit." Soon, he said, he was being "beaten with a two-by-two about four or five feet long."

"He estimated he received from 250 to 300 blows."

The slightly built Hayes, answering newsmen's questions in the hospital auditorium, said his jaw was broken during one of several beatings.

'Beautiful dreams' helped skier stay alive while lost 20 hours

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "I kept imagining that I was rescued. I thought I was in a ski lodge," 16-year-old Robert Izdepski said Monday as he recounted his 20 hours lost in the cold snowy Sierra.

Instead, Robert was shivering in a hastily built snow cave, hungry and exhausted after skiing a 25-mile zig-zag course in search of a trail that would take him back to the ski area and lodge near Donner Summit.

Experts say he stayed alive because he kept moving on his skis for most of the 20 hours he was lost.

The 5-foot-10, 140-pound high school senior had gotten off course at about 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the 7,000-foot level on the ski runs above the Sugar Bowl winter resort in the mountains between Sacramento and Reno, Nev. The two friends he was with had left earlier for the lodge, going down one of the standard runs.

"I just kept on going. I wanted to get back so that the party I was with wouldn't be alarmed," the slender youth said in an interview.

Don Schwartz, Sugar Bowl manager, said Robert "was just about at the end of his rope" before he was picked up by a helicopter about 11 a.m. Sunday. Robert, son of a retired Air Force man, said he got the impression that searchers "thought I was going to be dead." But he said: "I never felt my position was that serious. It was cold, but I never gave up hope," although at one point it occurred to him: "It would be kind of easy to die by just going to sleep."

Robert skied all afternoon and night Saturday before deciding to dig the snow cave into the side of a ravine with his gloved hands and ski poles. He wore a ski sweater in the 20-degree weather but had left his jacket at the lodge because "I didn't think it was going to be cold enough to need it."

"At daybreak, I put on my skis and decided to follow my tracks back."

A search plane spotted his winding trail and called the helicopter which found Robert about three hours after his resumed journey.

New Year's Day on mountain top

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Three women and 32 men, all experienced mountain climbers, are braving winds of 50 miles an hour or more, sub-zero temperatures and heavy snow trying to scale 13,766-foot Grand Teton Peak for New Year's Day.

One group of 27, led by Paul Petzoldt, 60, of Lander, Wyo., started Saturday and planned to camp Monday night at Middle Teton glacier, about 2,000 to 2,700 feet below the summit of the majestic peak.

Petzoldt's party aims to reach the summit Wednesday morning.

Another group of eight men left Grand Teton National Park headquarters Monday morning for the first winter assault on the peak's east ridge. George Lowe, 24, of Salt Lake City, who led the first successful winter climb of Grand Teton's north face last March, is guiding this party.

Petzoldt is making his fourth consecutive attempt to scale the mountain for a New Year's Day celebration. Weather halted his three previous tries.

Rick Horn, 29, member of the Lowe party, said "It's highly unlikely that we'll meet Petzoldt's party at the summit."

Petzoldt's group, including three women, is climbing the Owen route up the jagged rocky peak along the southwest slope.

Winds of 50 miles an hour were recorded Monday morning on Rendezvous Peak.

Turnpike materials all right

(HARRISBURG AP) — Pennsylvania Turnpike officials were scratching their heads Monday over tests showing the materials and procedures used in paving the new Blue Mountain and Kittatinny tunnels were perfectly okay.

The only problem, said Franklin V. Summers, turnpike director of operations, is that the tunnel roadways are far from okay — They're pock-marked and, after only one month of use, need repaving.

"We've tried every test we normally use and they all show that the materials used were of the approved type and were applied under approved procedures," said Summers.

The two tunnels were completed at a cost of $21.9 million and, with the renovation of existing two-lane tunnels through the mountains, will provide two lanes of traffic each east and west.

The prime contractor, C. J. Langenfelder and Son of Baltimore, received $16.4 million for its share of the work and, said Summers, unless further tests show the firm was not to blame, the contractor will have to foot the bill for the repaving.

Summers said his engineers will be working up some new tests on the asphalt roadway surface which thus far appears to be identical to bituminous materials used in scores of other turnpike paving projects.

But, said Summers, the turnpike commission will wait until spring before repaving in order to reduce the possibilities of another bad job because of cold and inclement weather.

A third tunnel through Tuscarora Mountain opened at the same time as the Blue Mountain and Kittatinny tunnels has held up well, turnpike officials report. It was paved by an Omaha, Neb., company.

Penn-Central to acquire New Haven

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Despite its objections, the Penn Central announced it would take over the bankrupt New Haven Railroad at midnight Tuesday.

Flu stops donors from giving blood

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The flu epidemic, the weather and the calendar have conspired to create a critical shortage of blood in the nation's blood banks and all but emergency surgery may have to be postponed, a survey disclosed Monday.

The epidemic of Hong Kong flu, accompanying other respiratory ailments normally high at this time of year, was listed as a major factor in the blood crisis by blood center and hospital officials across the country.

But bad winter weather is also a factor, and the mid-week Christmas and New Year's Day holidays have sent many Americans vacationing for longer periods than usual, away from home or too preoccupied to donate blood to their local centers.

New York City's health commissioner, Edward O'Rourke, issued a call to all healthy New Yorkers between the ages of 21 and 61 to call a special telephone number set up by the Greater New York Blood Program and offer a pint of blood.

In Chicago Dr. Aaron Josephson, medical director of the Mid America Red Cross Blood Center, asked the nation's surgeons to postpone all "optional surgery" — operations not of an emergency or critical nature — to conserve blood for emergency operations.

When hospitals in Philadelphia needed 85 pints of blood, a call went out to other states, but many blood centers found their own supplies too low to respond.

Nixon picks California executive as chief deputy in Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration Monday chose David Packard, a multimillionaire California electronics executive, to help run the multibillion-dollar Defense Department as deputy secretary of defense.

Secretary-designate Melvin R. Laird, who has acknowledged a lack of experience in administration, told newsmen the 56-year-old Packard will be "in position to complement me in those areas where we need strength in the next four years."

The selection of the silver-haired board chairman and chief executive officer of the Hewlett-Packard Co. of Palo Alto, Calif., is in line with President-elect Nixon's promise to bring topflight business talent into the Defense Department.

At a news conference, Packard said he plans to quit Hewlett-Packard and all other organizations in which he serves as officer or director when he assumes his Pentagon duties. His aim, he said, is to avoid any possibility of conflict of interest.

At the same time, Packard, who estimated his annual income at nearly $1 million, announced he will place in trust his 3.61 million shares of Hewlett-Packard stock, valued at about $300 million.

He said all income and increases in capital value of those shares during his government work will be distributed among educational and charitable organizations.

Packard told the news conference he is making these arrangements so "I can exercise my duties in the Defense Department with complete flexibility."

The Hewlett-Packard Co. manufactures electronic measurement instruments. It has total annual sales of about $280 million.

Of this, some $94 million involves either direct business with the Defense Department or with defense contractors. Thus, Packard acknowledged a "very substantial involvement" by his company in defense business.

Laird, now a Republican congressman from Wisconsin, said he had discussed Packard's plans with members of the Senate and that they had indicated they would go along with the arrangement. Packard's appointment as No. 2 man in the Pentagon is subject to Senate confirmation.

Laird cited as a precedent the action of former Gov. Price Daniel of Texas placing some oil stock in a trust when he was appointed to the Office of Emergency Planning.

Packard, a native of Pueblo, Colo., estimated that he receives about $700,000 a year in income from his Hewlett-Packard stock, plus a $125,000 salary and about $135,000 in profit-sharing. His holdings in Hewlett-Packard represent more than a quarter of the 12,547,000 shares outstanding.

As deputy defense secretary he will draw a $30,000 annual salary.

"I do not intend to live on $30,000," Packard said. He said his government pay check will be supplemented by some other income, the nature of which he did not specify.

Laird, in introducing Packard, said "I believe the country can indeed be pleased and proud that this outstanding business leader is willing to make the sacrifice to come aboard as the new deputy secretary of defense."

Among the firms with which Packard will sever connections is General Dynamics Corp., manufacturer of the controversial F111 (TFX) fighter plane.

He said he became a General Dynamics director after that Texas firm won the contract to build the plane.

He refused to be drawn into any discussion of the plane's merits.

LBJ's silence on tax reform baffling to bill's supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Speculation mounted Monday that President Johnson plans to ignore a Dec. 31 deadline fixed by Congress for him to submit broad tax-reform recommendations.

The Treasury, which drafted the package of revisions and loopholes-closers months ago and sent a revised final version to the White House weeks ago, said it had no information and, "The decision is up to the President."

Some officials concede privately they are baffled by the White House silence. Others are irritated at the delay and alarmed at the prospect the work might wind up in a pigeon hole—or be bequeathed to the incoming Nixon administration which would make further delay inevitable.

A view that Johnson would be justified in ignoring the congressional mandate is attributed to Secretary of the Treasury Joseph H. Barr.

Barr was not immediately available for comment. But he was quoted in the Nov. 4 issue of The Bond Buyer, a New York financial weekly, as noting that he is not at all sure Congress has the right under the Constitution to "order any president to submit recommendations for legislation."

Barr's associates said he still feels the same. And it is uncertain whether the tax-writing committee of Congress, House Ways and Means, wants the reform recommendations of the outgoing administration in any case.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said in a recent interview he doubts that much could come of such recommendations, and added:

"I now even question the advisability of President Johnson's submitting an extensive program of tax reform. His people will be out of office before it could be considered."

But Mills said he would like to have the Ways and Means Committee take up tax reform early in 1969 if President-elect Nixon could develop his own program in time.

The congressional edict is flat and specific, written into the 1968 surtax act. It states: "Not later than Dec. 31, 1968, the President shall submit to the Congress proposals for a comprehensive reform of the Internal Revenue Code . . ."

Saigon blocking talks

PARIS (AP) — Vietnam peace talks bogged down in total deadlock Monday with a Hanoi condition and a Saigon filibuster blocking the breakthrough sought by President Johnson before he quits office.

Despite an 11-day pause in their search for a compromise, American and North Vietnamese envoys showed no signs of meeting before the new year.

Hanoi's condition for progress was conveyed to Ambassador Cyrus Vance by Col. Ha Van Lau when they last met Dec. 19. A senior allied diplomat gave this account of it:

The shape of the conference table must be settled before any other issue of procedure or politics can be tackled in the informal American-North Vietnamese exchange. Because Hanoi also has been insisting the conference table must accommodate four separate and equal parties, including the Viet Cong delegates, this demand plunged the preparatory talks into a critical state.

Saigon's filibuster began when the team President Nguyen Van Thieu sent to Paris formed the impression that U.S. delegates were ready to strike a bargain with Hanoi before President-elect Nixon's inauguration Jan. 20, qualified allied officials described the filibuster this way.

Behind the stance taken by Lam and Ky lies a scarcely-concealed South Vietnamese belief that Saigon can count on more support and sympathy from Nixon than Johnson.

Bizarre Pike County stabbing ruled murder at inquest

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

MILFORD — The picture of a bizarre murder at Hemlock Farms in Blooming Grove Township unfolded Monday afternoon as a Pike County Coroner's jury heard testimony surrounding the circumstances in the death of a 41-year-old New York City teacher.

The five-man coroner's jury deliberated 20 minutes before issuing a verdict that Robert A. Ziepke of Cambria Heights, Queens, was murdered.

Specifically, the jury ruled that Ziepke met a violent death at the "hand of another."

During the Coroner's inquest, the jurors heard testimony that Ziepke was found lying nude in a pool of blood between the kitchen and livingroom of his vacation home.

Ziepke, who was stabbed numerous times in the chest and back, was found at 2:30 a.m. Saturday by a friend, Leroy Lennstrom of Massapequa, L.I.

Lennstrom, who testified at Monday's inquest, explained he was to spend the weekend at the Ziepke home in the vacation home development of Hemlock Farms.

Curtains drawn
Lennstrom, an employee of American Express Banking International in New York, said

Ziepke's home was dark and the curtains were drawn when he arrived about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. He also said the victim's car was not in the driveway.

State Police said later that Ziepke's 1964 Ford convertible was found in a ditch not far from his home. They were unable to determine, however, whether the car was connected with the death.

Lennstrom, who has a key to the home, said he unlocked the front door and entered. He opened a curtain, put on a light and "when I turned around I saw him lying on the floor between the bathroom and the kitchen."

Lennstrom, who was questioned by District Attorney William Gumble, showed the jury on a pencil drawn house floor plan exactly where he found his friend.

Asked whether he saw any wounds, Lennstrom said, "Yes, on the chest. Those were the first ones I saw." He explained moments later that the stab wounds were "right where the heart is. I believe there was one up on his neck."

The dark-haired and rather heavy-set Lennstrom said that he then called the operator and asked her to contact police. The State Police at Milford were then notified.

"I believe I told them (State Police) my friend had been murdered and I told them where," Lennstrom said.

Troopers Alton Koch and Robert McDewitt were sent to the scene.

Pool of blood
Lennstrom, who said the body was nude, testified that Ziepke "was lying in a pool of blood. There were bloodstains on the

Resort facilities ready

Art of ice skating to return

MOUNT POCONO — Skiing and snowmobiling may be the Poconos' number one winter sports attraction, but ice skating — one of the oldest winter sports — shouldn't be sold short.

There is ice skating available now within the four-county Pocono region for 400,000 persons.

No less than 36 year-round resorts in Northeastern Pennsylvania offer ice skating. There are also 200 lakes.

"We are pushing ice skating as the ideal sport for the entire family," said Joan Toms, winter sports committee woman for the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

"Resort owners are freezing their pools, lakes and swimming facilities to add another service for the incoming guests," she added.

Another feature of the Poconos is Pocono Ice-A-Rama, an indoor rink that has the ideal setup for those who like to do their figure eights indoors. Ice-A-Rama is located at Penn Hills in the Village of Anaconim.

Skytop, located high in the Poconos, also has an indoor skating rink that offers their guests all of the thrills of ice.

200,000 expected
Mrs. Toms believes that with the extra concentration on ice skating this year an added 200,000 persons will come to the Poconos from January through March.

Ice skating facilities are available at Birchwood, Honeymoon Haven, Cherry Hill Lodge, Antler's Lodge and Cottages, Buck Hill Inn, Chestnut Grove Lodge, Cloud Crest Motel, Countryside Cottages, Echo Valley Lodge,

Trooper Koch, in his testimony, said there was a trail of blood from the body, through the livingroom, into the kitchen and that blood had splattered onto the kitchen cabinet as high as six feet up. There was also blood next to the kitchen table, in Ziepke's bed and on the bedroom wall. The pool of blood, which was wider than Ziepke's body, was very thick and had dried, Lennstrom and Koch said. Lennstrom said he thought his friend had been dead long before he arrived. He said he telephoned about 4 p.m. Thursday and spoke to Ziepke to tell him he would be late. He said he again telephoned Friday afternoon, but there was no answer.

Lennstrom said he arrived in Port Jervis, N.Y. about 11 p.m. Saturday night and stopped at Bob's Grill for a few drinks. He again tried to telephone from there.

While the front door to the home was locked, according to Lennstrom, he said a thermopane glass was broken in the door. Lennstrom said when he telephoned Ziepke at 4 p.m. Thursday afternoon his friend told him that he had arrived a few hours earlier.

Pike County Coroner H. James Crellin and Gumble believe that Ziepke had died between about 4 p.m. Thursday afternoon and 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

Gumble said an autopsy is being performed in East Stroudsburg and that complete information on the time of death would not be available for about one week.

Door open
Trooper Koch testified that a glass sliding door which leads into an enclosed porch was open.

Koch said that Ziepke, an auto mechanic teacher at a vocational school in Freeport, L.I., was stabbed about four times in the chest. All stab wounds were "very close" together and also close to the heart.

In addition to the stab wound in the throat, Trooper Koch said Ziepke also had a laceration on the left hand.

There seemed to be only one discrepancy in the testimony given by Koch and Lennstrom. Koch said Ziepke's body was lying face-up when he arrived at the scene while Lennstrom said it was face down.

Koch said when the body was rolled over, he noticed several wounds in the center of the back. Gumble, after the inquest, said there were numerous stab wounds in the back. Koch said he did not think the wounds were self-inflicted.

He also said the wounds would have had to be made by a very sharp knife or other very sharp instrument.

Koch testified that there was very little blood on Ziepke's chest or neck and that the majority of the blood was on his back. He said most blood came from the back wounds. There was also some blood on the buttocks, but it was believed that the blood ran down when the victim either ran or walked through the house.

The trooper also said that Ziepke was nude, except for a pair of socks which were on his feet.

No knife found
Lennstrom, when questioned by Crellin, said he did not see any knife or other sharp instrument in the home.

Crellin had ordered the inquest on Saturday.

The five-man coroner's jury consisted of Fred Herbst, foreman; Thomas Coleman, Howard Brunhelle, Charles Clarke and Daniel Sullivan.

In addition to Gumble and Crellin and the witnesses, Sgt. Joseph P. Derwin of the Milford State Police participated in the inquest.

The coroner's inquest, the fourth held in Pike County during a 20 year period, lasted more than one hour.

State Police and the district attorney's office have started an intensive investigation.

Lennstrom said that Ziepke had the vacation home for about 13 months.

Food reimbursement

Monroe schools receive $52,290

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Reimbursement in federal funds totaling $52,290 has been made to Monroe County school districts for costs of the national lunch and milk programs operated by these schools in the 1967-68 school year, according to the State Department of Public Instruction, (distributing agency of these funds in Pennsylvania.)

Of this total $30,952 was applied to the cost of school lunches. Reimbursement under the milk program was listed at $20,338. Cost of lunches and milk in the child care program was $941.

35 cents average
According to the department the average cost of a lunch to a pupil was 35 cents and to a faculty member about 50 cents. Cost to a pupil of a half pint of milk, other than that served with the lunch, was five cents.

Lunches are served during the current school year in 24 schools and milk is available in 26 schools in Monroe County. Pupils in eight other schools in this county are in the programs but lunches are not served in their schools. In these cases food is transported to their schools from schools in which meals are served.

Parochial and non-profit private schools in the national programs receive reimbursements similar to those to public schools. Payments to these schools are made direct by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This federal agency provides certain supplemental foods to schools participating in the national lunch program in addition to the monetary reimbursements.

Payments to Monroe County school districts under these programs amounted to $48,948 in the previous school year.

Grants from federal funds for lunches served in public schools in Pennsylvania in the 1967-68 school year totaled $5,646,476 and for milk amounted to $4,422,961, according to the department.

1969 key year to community

The year 1968 A.D. is rapidly moving into history and infant 1969 is about to toddle timidly on the scene at midnight tonight.

1968 is a year that will long be remembered by most of us. It has been both kind and unkind. It has brought us happiness and tragedy by turn and it has seen failure intermixed with success.

The new year that arrives on the scene in a matter of hours will allow us an opportunity to atone for mistakes and failures that have appeared only too often in our everyday lives.

It is our hope that this community of Monroe, Pike, Wayne, Northampton and Carbon counties can work separately and together toward its most successful year in history. There is so much that can be accomplished in this area through hard work and cooperation.

We call for everyone to forget past differences and to renew their faith in this area. We ask that 1969 be the year in which we all drive toward the common goal of success and a bright future.

Let's cast aside all ill feeling and work with this community uppermost in mind. Let's forget personal gain and put the well being of the area at the top of the list.

Among the items that should be placed at the top of the list is planning and zoning, an issue that lost much ground during 1968 and as of now is at a standstill.

Cooperation in all forms of government is highly necessary in 1969 if our community is to grow orderly and completely. We can no longer allow personal feeling to rule our area. Good, honest thinking is the order of the future.

With high hopes for the future, The Pocono Record today would like to extend to each of its readers and friends a strong wish for a highly successful and healthful 1969.

Taking over

The Pennsylvania Story

Good first half

HARRISBURG — Gov. Raymond Philip Shafer, now winding up his second year at the gubernatorial helm, feels that the first half of his tenure hasn't been too bad at all.

"In fact, when you come right down to it, I think we've had a very good two years," he commented to this column.

Perhaps a bit on the tired side these days (he's been going at it more relentlessly than most people realize) the governor nevertheless still has his chin-jutting air of determination to get things done regardless of setbacks—things he is convinced will lead Pennsylvania to that "Commonwealth of Excellence" he has espoused since donning the gubernatorial toga two years ago.

It is true he has goofed a bit in some areas, but as the former Crawford County District Attorney is quick to point out:

"After all, none of us are perfect. I can only do the best I can. I've followed this credo in trying to do for Pennsylvania what I feel is best for this state, and to achieve this end, embodied in my Commonwealth of Excellence goal, I shall continue to do my very best!"

Plus side

On the plus side for Shafer is an area where many perhaps feel his success has languished on the vine—that of attaining legislative goals during the two-year span.

Taken all in during the two-year period, some 180 so-called "administration bills"—that is, bills submitted by the administration—have been dumped into the legislative hopper.

Of this number, 75 percent have been enacted and gained the imprimatur of approval of the gubernatorial pen—a total of 135 bills sponsored by the administration.

This, almost no matter how you look at it, is anything but a sorry record of accomplishment!

Actually, most of these legislative accomplishments were achieved in spite of a hair-thin pro-administration Republican majority in both the Senate and House of Representatives.

The "legislative reserve", that is, the back-up area on which the administration had to rely in case of defections, illness, deaths, etc., within the membership of the two legislative houses was almost non-existent (and at times not existent at all).

In fact, on occasion it required the assistance of opposition Democratic lawmakers to provide the votes necessary to work through some administration legislation!

One such notable instance developed in the case of the Constitutional Convention—which the governor early in his tenure keynoted as one of the prime goals of his administration.

It was a goal very dear to the governor's heart—but it came within a legislative hair of never becoming an accomplished feat. In fact the Constitutional Convention proposal would not have cleared the legislative decks—had it not been for votes provided by Democratic members of the House. There were simply too many defections within his own Republican bloc in the House.

When you sift through the administration's legislative scorecard during the two-year span there are indeed a host of plus-side legislative goals the governor achieved during the first half of his sojourn in the gubernatorial suite. Here are just a few at random:

First solid waste management act in the nation to help communities plan for disposal of junk and garbage;

First air pollution sampling network in the nation to monitor and warn of heavy air pollution concentrations;

Legislative enactment of a "Consumer Protection Bureau" along with legal weapons to attack unfair consumer practices;

Establishment of the "Pennsylvania Crime Commission" with strong investigatory powers;

Increased aid to education and new programs, including first in the nation to provide state assistance to nonpublic schools;

Creation of Pennsylvania's first Transportation Assistance Authority.

(And we would add some $300 million in new taxes during his first year!)

Guest editorial

Trim state expenses

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer has been talking in recent days about a state income tax which would be levied on top of the federal income tax.

He makes it sound as though this is the only way to cover the rising cost of state government.

And that's the point we are inclined to dispute. He seems much more concerned about getting more money into the state treasury to spend than about cutting back state spending to balance the commonwealth's income.

In other words, his emphasis is at the wrong place. His administration should be making its greatest effort to trim expenses. That should come first and should be continuous.

While we are not familiar enough with the details of the vast state budget to put our finger on many items which might be trimmed, we know how we must operate our own family budget, to stay within our earning power. We eliminate non-essentials. We abandon the frills. We space out our big commitments. We make do.

This should be done in state government. Some programs we can't afford to buy, at least not immediately. Others cannot be expanded as quickly as their proponents urge. The hiring of new or additional employees should be curbed.

If, the governor insists that we name names in urging the trimming of the budget, we point to the 10 state hospitals as a starter. Unload these pets and let the communities in which they operate be responsible for them just like Lycoming Countians are responsible for the four hospitals in Williamsport, Jersey Shore and Muncy. Millions of dollars would be deducted from state expenses if this were done.

It would be a move in the right direction and is certainly to be preferred to the existing policy of hunting taxes to catch up with spending.

Let's cut state expenses first, even if it hurts.

— Williamsport Sun-Gazette

Allen - Goldsmith Report

Defense question

John A. Goldsmith

(End of series)

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, as he acts to strengthen the nation's strategic defense forces, will move cautiously, avoiding crash programs and crisis psychology.

This was not always the implication of candidate Nixon's campaign speeches. Here was surely an air of crisis when he spoke of a gravely serious security gap and said it was approaching a survival gap for the United States.

Caution is clearly implied, however, in the recent statements of Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., who is to boss Mr. Nixon's Pentagon. It is also the implication of Nixon's appointment of a careful academician, Harvard Prof. Henry A. Kissinger, as White House adviser on national security affairs.

While President Johnson's final budget is subject to change, on recommendation of the Nixon team, Laird's comments suggest that the Nixon Administration's first major pitch to Congress for improved strategic weapons will come in the defense budget sent to Congress a year hence, in January 1970.

Laird has said he hopes the war in Vietnam will be over by the time that budget, the Nixon team's first, is put together for submission to Congress. That would not settle everything, but it would increase the flexibility for Nixon's budget experts.

Laird has also spoken of the appointment of a blue-ribbon commission to conduct a review of the nation's defense policies. He has said the commission might take six months to a year to make its recommendations.

It all suggests that major Nixon initiatives in defense planning will be shaped when the administration begins assembling its own final budget recommendations next fall.

Whither Russia?

President Johnson's final budget may take a step or two toward stronger strategic forces. There have been reports that the President may recommend a design competition, at least, for a new manned bomber long sought by the Air Force.

If the Johnson budget does not do so, Congress may provide funds to replenish the military hardware—guns, trucks, aircraft and the like—taken from the shelf for the fighting in Vietnam.

Once those things are accomplished (and without much push from Nixon), there would be much to recommend a wait-and-see period for the new administration. For one thing, the war in Vietnam might end, or near its end, as indicated by Laird.

There are, however, other important questions which could be answered while Laird's commission is at work and before the first Nixon defense budget is sent to Congress. These questions involve, in various ways, the policies and intentions of the Soviet Union.

Is there, for example, any real hope that the need for strategic forces can be lessened through negotiated arms limitation? The Kremlin's off-again, on-again attitude towards such negotiations in recent weeks leaves this question very much up in the air for the present.

How far does Russia intend to go with its new show of strength? Soviet land-based intercontinental missile forces are now numerically just about equal with ours. With its modernized navy, Russia is extending its influence into new areas. Where does all this stop?

Just before election day, Nixon advisers let it be known that defense spending would rise, in a Nixon Administration, to total $87 billion in the budget year 1973. That total assumed an end to the Vietnam war and expenditures of $10 billion to $15 billion a year on post-war projects in Southeast Asia.

Some of these tough Russian questions must have an answer before the Nixon team starts apportioning its projected $21 to $26 billion increase in non-Vietnam defense spending. In seeking the "questioned superiority" over Russia which he has pledged, the new President must first answer the question: "Superior to what?"

Noisy opposition

Whatever Nixon proposes, by way of increased defense spending, will encounter loud and long opposition in Congress. As we have noted, continuance of such current projects as the thin anti-missile defense (ABM) has already come under determined attack in the House and Senate.

Much of this "guns vs. butter" controversy has been initiated by congressional Democrats who want to divert defense funds to finance welfare programs and meet other national needs. There is nothing to suggest that those needs will become less pressing and nothing to indicate that Democratic critics will be less critical with a Republican President in the White House.

One thing is clear, however: so far, the congressional critics of large defense outlays have been loud, and determined, and unsuccessful. They have talked; they have proposed cuts, but they have not had the votes—for example—to kill the $5.5 billion anti-ballistic-missile (ABM) screen.

When the war ends in Vietnam, pressure for non-defense spending will increase. Nixon's budget annually under present tax rates. Under those circumstances—and without enforceable arms limitations—it does not now appear that Congress would greatly cut defense spending.

Many members of the House and Senate are in visceral agreement, on this point, with Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., the new chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, though they probably would not use the words Russell used in a closed-door Senate session.

"If we have to start over again, with another Adam and Eve," said Russell, "then I want them to be Americans and not Russians, and I want them on this continent and not in Europe."

Questions interests

Unless it is, it cannot serve the true interest of the general public. Productive communication is not possible when the sentiment of special interest runs counter to the official purposes of the group.

Why is the commission against hiring a qualified planner? They say Leonard Ziolkowski caused poor public relations. Are all planning directors always poor at public relations? Why couldn't the planning board have emphasized that characteristic in its next choice.

They say that qualified planners cost too much, but they are hiring an untrained man for a higher salary than Ziolkowski received. In refusing to hire a qualified planner they increase costs further by the need for consultants. They say they do not want to be involved with as many state and federal programs as before. Does having a qualified planner pre-suppose that the commission must take part in every program?

These excuses against hiring a qualified planner do not stand up. Something must be back of them.

To me, they are part of a move to weaken planning in Monroe County. Who would benefit by less efficient planning? Developers. To them, the less planning the better. But for the long term good of everyone, planning should be the best that can be provided.

It is the county's way of supervising all development so that as far as possible, the resulting surroundings will be unified, consistent, efficient, and pleasing to the beholder. Non-supervised growth may not only produce undesirable results, but is often costly to the taxpayer. And though it is the county's right and duty to plan, we now find our Planning Commission dominated by developers.

This domination has progressed to the extent that the commission has now named a developer as their administrator. County Commissioners have obviously been pressured to appoint developers to the Planning Commission.

It is time this process was reversed. The developers who now sit on the planning commission should choose a spokesman to remain from among their group and then, all but he, resign. If the resignations are not forthcoming, the county commissioners should request them. When the new planning commission has been formed, the appointment of a director should be considered.

Hangover cures

WASHINGTON — Ever since last year at this time I've been saving mail generated by the column of hangover cures, which I published as a public service for New Year's Eve celebrants. The consensus seems to be that they did not work.

To a man (and a woman), my readers reported that despite the medications prescribed head-aches persisted, cotton remained in mouths and teeth itched throughout the day. One sufferer reported shooting pains lingering as long as the final quarter of the Rose Bowl game.

So, I'm a failure, which probably is what I get for practicing sympathy and compassion without a license.

However, I am not discouraged, if you aren't, and once again I'm giving you my hangover recommendations. Tear out this column, fold and place in your shoe, where it will be readily available Wednesday morning. (Unless you lose your shoe tonight, which, under the circumstances, is entirely likely).

Stranger this year

This year's hangover remedies are much stronger than last year's because it has become clear to me that I seriously underestimated the consumption of my readers. Reading your letters of complaint, I felt like the recording secretary for Alcoholics Anonymous. Anyway, here goes:

Sure-fire Cure Number One: When you get up, hang onto your head and run immediately into the bath and turn on the water in the tub. While the tub fills, have your wife call the nearest hospital and report that her husband fell asleep in the tub and may be drowning. Shortly an ambulance will arrive and the attendants will give you oxygen. This procedure is a trifle expensive, but oxygen is great for a hangover.

Four-Alarm Cure Number Two: In a cocktail shaker, mix one cup turnip-green juice, one-half cup cod liver oil, a jigger of any cough syrup available and a tablespoon of castor oil. Fix a double Bloody Mary and hold it aside. Shake the first concoction, pour into a bowl and stare at it for 15 minutes. Then, pour it down the sink and drink the Bloody Mary, happy in the knowledge that things could be worse; you might have had to drink Four-Alarm Cure Number Two.

Blockbuster Cure Number Three: It is a known fact that interns in hospitals cure their own hangovers quickly by getting a friendly nurse to give them a vitamin shot. It is also a known fact that most interns are broke, especially during the holidays. A clever man, with a $20 bill, might work wonders for himself (and his hangover) by hanging around the snack bar of the local hospital. Good luck!

We got the Pueblo crew back by admitting to trespassing. Do you suppose we could have done that 11 months ago?

Photos of the earth from space show no signs of life. But, then, you really can't call this living.

I hope Nixon will do something about the youth of America. And, incidentally, my lawn.

It kind of bugs you to go Christmas shopping when so many others are going Christmas stealing.

Clay Shaw trial not forgotten

Little has been heard lately of the on-again, off-again trial of Clay Shaw stemming from the assassination of President Kennedy. But in New Orleans recently, District Attorney Jim Garrison, right, set Jan. 21, 1969 — the day after Richard M. Nixon is sworn in as President — as the date for the assassination-conspiracy trial. Shaw, 55, a retired businessman, was first indicted on the charge in early 1967.

Military academies liberalize learning

EDITOR'S NOTE — There's a revolution in the military — but it's purely academic. The whole process of learning in America's service academies—West Point, Annapolis, the Air Force Academy—is changing, away from the strictly military. The country's future military leaders are getting a broader education, with a new emphasis on the liberal arts and humanities.

By GARVEN HUDGINGS
AP Education Writer

America's service academies, once cloistered strongholds of lock-step learning, today are emerging from an academic revolution which has profoundly changed the content of military education in this country.

The intention is to achieve the ideal balance between the Spartan and the Athenian—to produce good soldiers solidly grounded in the liberal arts.

At West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., today's cadets and midshipmen are being offered the broadest and most comprehensive education that is available anywhere.

The armed services recognized in the aftermath of World War II—and more urgently in the wake of Sputnik—that the old systems of military education could not adequately prepare officers to cope with the new range of enormously sophisticated and complex global demands.

The result has been a drastic overhaul of curricula at all three academies to broaden and extend the fields of study and instruction.

"For years the basic idea was that people came in here and we put them all in the hopper and turned the crank," says Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, new superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. "That simply will not do today."

West Point's rugged academic dean, Brig. Gen. John R. Jannarone, 54, sums it up: "In modern military operations, defense activities find a need for specialists in practically every field but theology."

Theology is one of the few courses cadets and midshipmen will not find listed today in their catalogues.

They can, and do, study Chinese, spoken Russian, the English novel, Greek and Roman classics, contemporary drama, Far Eastern literature, international relations, systematic cultural geography, comparative government, constitutional law, economics, great religions of the world, ethics, art and music appreciation, to name a few.

All are balanced with the essentials of the profession—mathematics through probability and statistics, physics, engineering, sea power, employment of air power and ordnance.

The fact that the U.S. Naval Academy, in less than 20 years, has increased the number of academic courses it offers midshipmen from 50 to 350 underscores the revolution which has taken place in military education.

Explaining the current philosophy at the military service academies, Brig. Gen. William Woodard, Air Force Academy dean of faculty, comments: "The trend in military education has been to include more humanities. We want our cadets to know the reasoning behind what they are studying—the why of it—instead of just learning how to operate some machine or instrument. We want to educate in the classical manner rather than for a specific skill."

The new methods—particularly those involving closer contacts between instructors and students in smaller classes at the cost of the old lecture system—have stirred some resistance from old timers.

Yet nobody seriously argues that the academies had a choice.

Rear Adm. James Calvert, 48, superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy, points out that young men coming into the academies are increasingly sophisticated themselves.

"There is no question that the Naval Academy had to go into a more sophisticated curriculum," he says. "We couldn't just rest on technology. The leadership task for young men today is vastly more complex than it was 20 or 30 years ago. It would be a cultural mismatch to put today's young men under the leadership of the 1830s."

People at the Air Force Academy like to point out that it was the Air Force which blazed the trail in broadening military education.

Founded in 1955, the Air Force Academy started off with the idea that old methods of training officers were outdated.

"From the outset, the feeling here has been that there should be an equal division of time between the social sciences and the basic engineering-science courses," Gen. Woodard says.

"We have 20 areas in which a cadet can major or specialize at the Air Force Academy. The only requirement is that there should be some area in which his major can be applied in the Air Force."

West Point and the Air Force Academy differ sharply from Annapolis on the makeup of their faculties.

Faculties at West Point and Annapolis are composed entirely of officers, with the exception of two civilian experts appointed by the State Department to instruct in political science.

The faculty at the Naval Academy is half civilian, half military.

Authorities at the Air Force Academy and at West Point—where two-thirds of the instructors are Vietnam veterans—argue that their system has the advantage of teaching cadets studying to be career officers to emulate their carefully selected officer-instructors.

At Annapolis, it is argued that civilian faculty members, most of whom devote entire careers to teaching at the Academy, provide the scholarly depth and resources required at this time of greatly expanded elective study programs.

Whether they're in uniform or not, the men charged with making professional officers from the raw material which reports each July 1 to West Point, Annapolis and Colorado Springs are dedicated to the principle of general rather than specialized education.

Some highly qualified Air Force Academy cadets take part in an "enrichment program," under which they are permitted to take advanced courses in their chosen fields at major civilian universities during part of their final year.

The Naval Academy has a Trident Scholar plan, under which a limited number of exceptionally capable students engage in independent study and research during the senior year.

Competition for Rhodes scholarships for advanced study at Oxford is brisk at the three academies.

The record shows, in fact, that only three American universities have gained more Rhodes scholarships than West Point.

In the classrooms—all of them small with places for from 12 to 15 students—the atmosphere at the academies is businesslike, but not rigid as an outsider might expect.

Cadets and midshipmen are encouraged to ask questions, to discuss, or even to dispute a point if necessary, and they do. Cadets and midshipmen cannot always pinpoint a course of study which appears to them to be the most valuable, despite the fact they now can choose from a wide variety of electives and majors.

But a cross-section, interviewed unanimously agreed that the academies teach you what to do with time.

West Point Cadet Capt. Bill Taylor, 21, of Alexandria, Va., says the schedule is what does it.

"There are classes from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., athletic programs, parades, military duties and training exercises, meetings—and classes to be prepared for the next day," Taylor says. "You learn how to think under pressure. I think this sticks with you always after you have left the Academy."

At the Air Force Academy, Col. Fagan agrees.

"These young men have to make every minute count," he says. "They're in bed by 10:45 p.m.—most of them. That's when many students in civilian colleges are just beginning to clear the bull sessions out of their rooms so they can start to study."

Let go of past

CROSTOWN STEADY: (Q.) I've moved across town from my boy friend. We still go steady. He told me he wouldn't play around on me and I told him the same.

When he calls and I tell him about somebody new I've met, he gets angry. If it's a boy or boys, he gets very jealous.

Then he tells me how he pulled so-and-so's hair and grabbed her around the neck. This makes me jealous.

I want to trust him, but sometimes I think he doesn't want to trust me. I don't want to have to spy on him. If he loves me as much as he says, will he play around on me?

Jealous in Newark, N.J.

(A.) If you have to spy it's not worth it. And even under the best of conditions it doesn't make much sense to keep going steady when you're at different schools. Even if you're close, you're always worrying about what the other one is doing at the other school.

If you can keep on dating each other occasionally but not exclusively, fine. But don't hold onto the past so tightly that you limit your future.

HAIR SCARE: (Q.) My hair is naturally dark. I don't look good in it. So I've been putting lighter in once more it's going months. But about an inch and a half of the roots stay black.

I just know that if I put the lighter in once more it's going to turn white. I'm really scared to do it again.

Those luxury gifts Care of fur, suede

By MISS DAWNE SENSINGER
Monroe County Assistant

STROUDSBURG — Furs and suede garments were popular Christmas gifts this year. However, a gift of this type deserves some consideration from you. Proper care of these garments will keep them attractive for years to come.

Tips on Caring for Suede Garment — If you were fortunate enough to receive a suede garment or one trimmed in suede for Christmas, you'll want to give it special care to keep it looking attractive. Suede is a finish given to leather by abrasion. The process makes the leather soft and pliable and gives it a velvety surface called a nap. Garment labels often give cleaning instructions. And they may state that the suede is guaranteed, provided it's cleaned by a certain process. That's why you want to be sure to check labels and hangtags.

Use a dry cellulose sponge to help restore the nap when the garment is dry. Proper care of your suede or suede-trimmed garment can keep it looking as attractive as the first day you wore it.

Give Fur Proper Care — Many people agree that furs are beautiful and that's why many are given as Christmas gifts. If you received a fur garment this year, here's a reminder. Although attractive in your wardrobe, a fur item can lose its perky appearance if you don't give it proper care.

For example, never pin jewelry or flowers on a fur. Pinholes will weaken the skin and the weight of the pin may cause guard hairs to break off. And eventually the shorter hairs of the underfur may become damaged through friction and abrasion.

If a fur garment or trim becomes damp from rain or snow, shake it and hang in a cool place — a spot where air can circulate around the garment and the fur can dry normally. Of course, if the fur becomes soaked, you may need to take it to a furrier for proper care.

And keep in mind that chemical sprays, perfumes or colognes sprayed on the fur may cause it to become brittle.

Jolley Janes dinner party at Bartonsville

BARTONSVILLE — The Jolly Janes held their Christmas party at the Bartonsville Hotel featuring a ham and turkey dinner. Games were played and secret pal gifts were exchanged, revealing the pals of the past year. New ones were chosen.

Gifts were sent to shut-in members and to the mothers of club members.

Attending were Mrs. Vernon Wallace, Miss Mary Alleger, Mrs. Daisy Alleger, Mrs. James N. Canfield, Mrs. Kathryn Hertling, Mrs. Margaret Halstead, Mrs. Edward Vican, Mrs. Fred Walters, Mrs. Vernon Garis, Miss Emma Dunbar, Mrs. Ethel Reinhart, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Roy Schreck and Mrs. James Agins.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James N. Canfield on Jan. 9.

Your fur deserves the best of care to keep it looking as attractive as when you take it out of its shiny gift wrappings this Christmas.

Suede usually needs to be cleaned by specialists in leather care since it may also need to be reconditioned and re-dyed after cleaning. Although such care is expensive, home-cleaning may prove more expensive. Some cleaning fluids may remove the dye. The added expense of correcting the damage may amount to more than the professional cleaning would have cost.

Here are several home-care suggestions for suede. You can remove general soil by brushing suede with a soft bristle brush or a damp rubber sponge. Use a circular motion to collect surface soil and oil. And, art gum will remove some surface soil. Hang a suede garment on a padded hanger in a cool closet. Don't cover suede with a plastic bag because heat and lack of circulation dry out leather. You can press a suede garment with a warm, dry iron. Press wrong-side out, using brown wrapping paper between the iron and leather. Remember, never use steam. Don't try to wash suede with water. And should you get caught in the rain or snow in your suede coat, let it dry naturally at room temperature.

Christmas concert: Kenny Heckman plays for his mother

Music cheers invalid's life

EAST STROUDSBURG — The holidays aren't just for children, and Kenneth Heckman of 20 South Kistler St., East Stroudsburg, was determined that they should be happy days for his mother.

Mrs. Martha Heckman, a widow for 10 years and bound to a wheelchair for the last three years, is in the same position as many women of 80, but few of them have a resident pianist to entertain them.

Heckman, an accomplished pianist, plays for her by the hour. She herself used to be a musician before she married and played the organ at the Baptist Church when it was still pumped by hand by manpower. She still keeps time with her good hand when he plays.

Heckman has also made, in intricate scrollwork in wood, a large wall copy of the 23rd Psalm, which hangs in front of her view.

During the day, Mrs. Heckman is cared for by her deceased sister's daughter, Mrs. Ethel Raughley, but her son takes over at night when he comes home from working at Hughes Printing Co.

"She's always so jolly," he says, and recites with pride the number of people who come to visit her, including her pastor Rev. William F. Wunder of the Grace Lutheran Church who is a frequent caller.

Furnishings '69 style

Have your very own space capsule

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In 1969, your living room may look as if it is in orbit.

The spherical look has been added to popular cube, rectangle, cylindrical and elliptical forms.

We accept the appearance of Terence Cashen's Orb chair—a round blob of foam that resembles an orange—and we might go further and lunge courageously at it, finding ourselves surprisingly comfortable in the depression made by our posteriors.

If we want a chair with a ready-made chair with a ready-made chair, we might prefer Piero Aarnio's ball chair. The Finish designer has hollowed an orb, and has it standing on a pedestal. There are other chair expressions in the round—a bowl chair by Thornton and Sandberg of England, a tub chair by Holland's Pierre Paulin, a cone chair by Selby Turner.

Designers, everywhere, have been concentrating on chairs, tables, lamps.

When chairs are not rounded, they pretend to be invisible. The see-through look is in chairs with plastic side panels and inflatable upholstery. It is in folded chairs by Neal Small, and in completely inflatable "air chairs" by Quasar Khan. One chair with plate glass sides frames held together with large metal bolts has sausage style upholstery.

There are large foam armchairs and sofas from Italy and American foam chairs that are color sprayed. There are chairs of chrome, steel, aluminum. One fun metal chair by Bill Bell has an all-over silk screen design of yellow and orange. One German design is red, white and black, a take-apart chair.

Design may be a study in contrasts. Large chairs may have spindly metal legs or they may have large, round elephant legs, such as one whimsical looking Italian chair.

Many coffee tables are in the round. Some round glass tops have bases of sculpture, some sculpture is encased in round plastic forms. The Danes provide a build-it-yourself plan with rings that stack until you get the desired height.

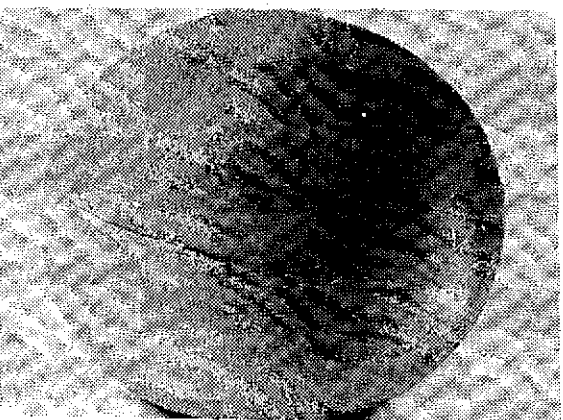

But cube tables are still the most popular and available in wood, fur, Naugahyde, glass, plastic or mirrored.

Rectangles have brought a whole new look to the living room in T-square or Parsons table. In every size and color—orange, blue, shocking pink, white or what have you—the tables are observed in posh traditionally furnished living rooms or helping to soften the effects of stark modern.

The largest and most inspired collection of contemporary lamps comes from Italy, but there are handsome designs from Finland, Denmark, Holland. Here are short and tall dome, hood, helmet and mushroom shapes in white, colors, metals, plastics. There is an Italian petal lamp that opens slowly to reveal the light. There are globes set on cubes. One low floor lamp looks like a moon-toy with its spherical shape on short rod-like legs. Another low floor lamp is a series of metal rectangles attached to slim chrome legs. Neal Small has done a handsome floor lamp of plastic.

A Spherical Chair — The occupant's weight deflates the ball of polyurethane foam to look like this.

Unoccupied Orb chair looks like this.

The new eclectic direction of interior design which provides a wedge into the solid traditional sphere, has no doubt inspired designers of far-out concepts. How wrong can you be with one piece, and you may even learn to love it—they hope.

The proof is in good design that outlasts competition, such as the Eames-Saaren lounge chair and Tiffany lamps.

Such long-lasting good design may provide the answers to why Spanish style furniture remains popular. Pure Spanish is good design and until its critics can produce better designed bedroom and living room furniture for American pocketbooks, the mood for Spanish will continue—no matter how buyers and stores rebel.

In addition to well-designed Spanish beds and tables, French chairs, English camel-back Chippendale sofas and Regency chairs, American Empire sofas and art nouveau from America and Europe are being snapped up for eclectic decorating.

Another addition to this look is Drexel's sedan chair that should certainly have bride appeal.

Furniture design, construction and materials are better; but, the flaw is high price—one reason why the entire rooms in upper strata homes are unfurnished and why many people have only one or two pieces of furniture in their living room.

Selling high

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks took another battering Monday, dimming the prospects of a year-end rally. Trading was moderately active.

Selling, largely in the form of pre-holiday profit taking, was in high gear most of the session as such favorable news items as rising machine tool orders, increased construction awards and higher consumer prices failed to generate sufficient demand. Concern over renewed Arab-Israeli hostilities also appeared to discourage investors.

For weeks, many analysts had been predicting the traditional end of the year spurt and the bright economic news background seemed to substantiate such forecasts. However, the clincher apparently came about two weeks ago when the nation's major banks jacked up their prime interest rate—that charged business concerns with a top credit rating—to an historic high of 8 1/2 per cent.

Not only was this the second increase in a two-week period, but it touched off widespread fears of another money crunch similar to the one which shook the financial arena in 1966.

Since the posting of the high prime rate, the market has largely disregarded normally bullish economic developments, and the slide has gone almost uninterrupted.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, dropped 1.11 per cent on 1,600 issues crossing the tape. Declines outnumbered advances, 1,095 to 327. There were 26 new lows set, 21 new highs.

The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chip industrials fell 7.40 to 945.11. DJ rails and utilities also retreated, although not as sharply.

The New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a loss of 51 cents in the average common share price.

Volume totaled 12,000,000 shares, up from 11,200,000 of Friday.

INA Corp. headed the list of 15 most active issues which included ten losers and five winners. It declined 2 to 47 1/2 on 916,000 shares, most of which involved a block of 832,600 at 48 in a cross-transaction, INA

The Pocono Record, The Stroudsburg, Pa. — Tues., Dec. 31, 1968

Frank E. Hemelright

John F. Murphy

Everybody's Business

New bank offices to be filled today

MOUNT POCONO — Frank E. Hemelright will become chairman of the board of directors and chief executive officer of the Northeastern Pennsylvania National Bank and Trust Co. as of Wednesday.

John F. Murphy will assume the title of president of the bank on the same date.

The Northeastern Pennsylvania National Bank and Trust Co., with headquarters in Scranton, has a branch office in Mount Pocono.

Record for mobile homes

CHICAGO — With only 10-month figures reported, the mobile home industry has already set home shipments streaking to a yearly record of 265,470 homes, reports James Redman (Redman Industries), president of the Mobile Home Manufacturers Assn.

The 10-month total tops 1967's yearly record of 240,360 by 25,110 homes. October shipments established an individual monthly mark of 33,370 homes, surpassing the previous record of 30,440 set in August. Through October, the industry is 32 per cent ahead of 1967.

The mobile home industry's ability to construct homes on an automated assembly line, quickly and at economical prices accounts for its dominance of the under $15,000 housing market. In 1967, three out of four homes sold for $15,000 or less were mobile homes.

Mortality on increase

NEW YORK — Mortality in the United States was about five per cent higher in 1968 than in 1967, according to statistics of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

They estimate the national death rate for 1968 to be about 9.8 per 1,000 population. This marks the 21st year in succession in which a death rate below 10 per 1,000 was registered in this country.

The mortality rate from influenza and pneumonia combined is estimated to be of the order of 35 per 100,000 population in 1968, or about 20 per cent higher than in 1967.

The estimated death rate from influenza may be about five times that in 1967, reflecting the widespread outbreaks that occurred in the first two months and especially in the last two months of 1968. In many parts of the country the frequency reached epidemic proportions.

Slower economic growth forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The coming year will bring somewhat slower economic growth, lessening inflation and a small rise in unemployment, according to a survey by the National Planning Association.

Economists of the private, nonprofit research organization in a forecast released Sunday predict a Gross National Product of $910 billion, up about $50 billion from 1968.

Assuming a price increase of 3.2 per cent in 1969—compared with 4 per cent this year—this figures to a real growth of about 2.6 in the coming year.

Property sold

STROUDSBURG — Wagner's Forest Products, Inc., Pocono Lake, Friday sold 80.99 acres of land in Tobyhanna Township for $80,834 to Pocono Lake Preserve, according to a deed filed in the Monroe County Register and Recorder's office.

Lew Alcindor (seven feet, one inch) towers over all others as he pulls a rebound off the board during ECAC Holiday Basketball Festival title game against St. John's in New York Monday. With 30 points, Alcindor led his team to a 74-56 victory over the Redmen and the festival crown. (UPI Telephoto)

But two baskets by Alcindor and one by John Vallely at the outset of the second half pushed the Bruins' lead to 16 points and they took command of the game from then on. St. John's closed to within six points again but the Bruins' offense began to take shape and Alcindor, with help from Ken Heitz and Sidney Wicks, enabled UCLA to boost its margin to as many as 23 point. Before coach John Wooden removed his starters.

Holiday tournaments good for St. John's, Columbia

NEW YORK (UPI)—The merry whirl of holiday basketball tournaments was sweet music to St. John's and Columbia fans Monday as the two New York schools used the post-Christmas competition to vault onto the elite list of ranked teams among the nation's major college basketball powers.

St. John's, which topped previously unbeaten North Carolina 72-70 to gain the final round of the Holiday Festival Tournament in New York, wasn't even in the rankings a week ago but the Redmen climbed to 10th place in this week's ratings.

Columbia, finalist in the Rainbow Classic Tournament at Honolulu, moved up to 14th place.

The 35-member UPI Coaches Rating Board once again was unanimous in its choice of UCLA as the number one team for the fourth consecutive week. Coach John Wooden's Bruins received all 35 first place votes and on the basis of 10 points for first place and on down the line, the Los Angeles school compiled a perfect score of 350 points.

UCLA pushed its record to 7-0 with a 98-81 victory over Providence and an 83-67 conquest of Princeton in the first two rounds of the Holiday Festival. St. John's was UCLA's opponent for the Festival title.

Despite its loss, North Carolina held on to second place, but the Tar Heels' margin over third-ranked Davidson was cut to five points. North Carolina (7-1) received 243 points and Davidson 238. Davidson is unbeaten in seven outings.

Kentucky (6-1) held on to the No. 4 spot with 227 points. Brawny Santa Clara, Columbia's opponent in the finals of the Rainbow Classic and possessor of a 9-0 record, replaced Villanova in the No. 5 spot with 162 points.

Kansas (9-1) was ranked sixth with 107 points followed by Villanova (6-1) in the No. 7 spot with 92 points. Villanova's loss in the Holiday Festival to North Carolina dropped the Wildcats from fifth to seventh. However, they showed new signs of life by downing Michigan State 75-66 Saturday afternoon.

Illinois, pride of the midwest and off to a fast start with a 9-0 mark, gained the No. 8 position with 81 points, followed by Cincinnati with 74 and St. John's in 10th spot with 71.

Buffalo may get stadium

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The Erie County legislature voted Monday to accept a private enterprise proposal designed to break a seven-month deadlock that has delayed construction of a domed $50 million sports stadium for Buffalo.

The vote was 16-2 with two members, both favorable to the plan, absent.

The agreement gives the Kenford Co., headed by Edward Cottrell, six weeks to provide a proposed site for the stadium. The lawmakers would then have four weeks to accept or reject the recommendation.

Kenford will pay the full cost of the site study and if its recommendation is rejected by the lawmakers, the agreement would be automatically terminated.

Kenford, which seeks a 40-year lease to operate and promote the stadium, entered the picture Dec. 17—seven months and one day after the legislature overwhelmingly approved a $50 million bond resolution only to fall into a deadlock over site.

A Kenford spokesman, following the legislature's approval of the plan, said the firm's timetable had been approved by Ralph C. Wilson, owner of the Buffalo Bills.

Wilson exerted pressure on the legislature earlier this month by visiting the site of the planned Seattle stadium, giving an indication that avoiding a flat statement that he would move the Bills from Buffalo if a stadium was not under way in the near future.

The Kenford spokesman said his firm had anticipated legislative approval of its proposal and already had given site experts a go-ahead for preliminary work.

If Kenford's recommended stadium location is accepted, Cottrell plans to name a separate group to enter into lease negotiations with the legislature. Cottrell gave the legislature a $150,000 check at the Dec. 17 meeting as a sign of "good faith."

Neither East nor West can boast of the best

HARRISBURG (AP)—The 1968 scholastic sports year might have been the one in which the East or West proved it had Pennsylvania's best athletes.

But as the year ended, it was apparent that the Keystone State has plenty of talented competitors everywhere.

The most direct test came in August, when the Big 33 football game became an East-West affair before 20,000 in Hershey Stadium. The score was East 7, West 8, with the only difference the extra point kicked by the East's Ed Tennis.

The regular football season saw undefeated teams from all parts of the state, including Latrobe, Easton, Montour, Philadelphia Cardinal Dougherty, Abington, Mount Carmel, Blakely, Haverford, Delaware Catholic, and others.

In basketball, it was another toss-up. The West's Laurel Highlands won the Class A basketball title with a 63-56 overtime triumph over Cheltenham, but the East evened the score with Middletown's 78-48 romp over East Brady in Class B and Mount Penn's 62-61 squeaker over Williamsburg in Class C.

Laurel Highlands' victory was sparked by Wilbert Robinson, who tallied 31 points, a record-setting performance for a Class A championship final.

Robinson averaged 28.7 points a game, and made the Associated Press All-State basketball team. Joining him were Dennis Wuyek, who averaged 32.2 for Ambridge; Paul Hoffman of Hazleton St. Gabriel; Paul Biko of Scranton Cathedral, and Craig Littlepage of Cheltenham.

The 1968 football All-State team had a backfield that combined for 66 touchdowns. Ross Moore of Allentown Dieruff was the quarterback; Tom Geishauer of Altoona Bishop Guilfoyle and Bob Pilz of Easton were the halfbacks and Dennis Booker of Kiski Area, the fullback. Booker scored 25 touchdowns and had a fantastic 9.2 rushing average, to lead the backfield corps. The line featured a 6-foot-5 inch 280-pound tackle, John Lewchinko of Beaver Falls.

In track and field, five new records were set at the championships last May 25, including three by Class A competitors. Gary Demar of Baldwin threw the shot put 62 feet, 1 1/4 inches, topping the old mark of 61 feet, 11 inches. Maurice Peoples of Wilkes Barre GAR triple jumped 48 feet, erasing a record of 47 feet, 11 inches. And Abington's mile relay team finished in 3:19.3, breaking a mark of 3:20.8.

In Class B, the two-mile relay team of Erie North East broke the tape in 8:07.7 minutes, besting the former record of 8:02.8.

Mount Lebanon was the Class A team winner in track, with Wissahickon taking Class B honors.

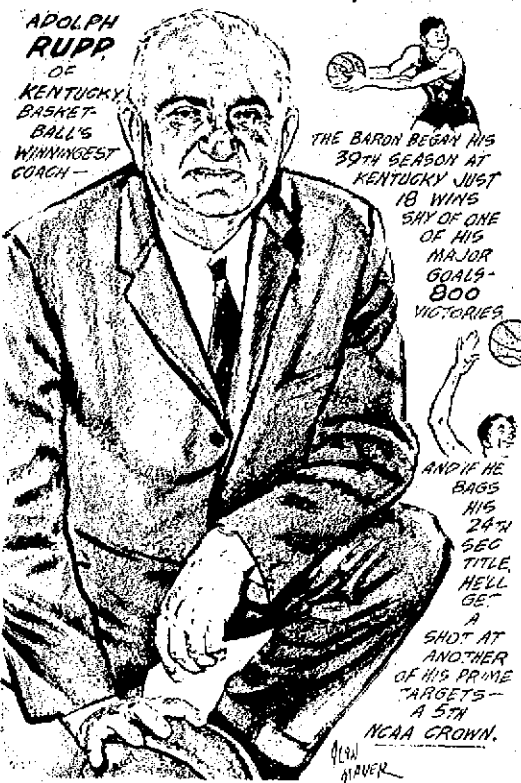

Rain influenced the golf championships, reducing the tourney to 36 holes. Champ Dennis Salsynur of Erie East, also a fine quarterback in football, took first place with a 71-71—142.

Wrestling, which is becoming more popular each year, produced a host of individual champs. Don Newhard, of Allentown Dieruff and Karl Ginder, of Manheim Central, won the 180-pound and heavyweight divisions respectively.

Other titlists were John Bordell, Shamokin, 35 pound division; Ken Hess, West Snyder, 103 pounds; Dave Clark, Clearfield, 112 pounds; Norm Palovesik, Clearfield, 120 pounds; George Dugan, German Township, 127 pounds.

Also, Craig Fox, Easton, 133 pounds; Lynn Hausner, Mount Lebanon, 138 pounds; John Charman, Trinity, 145 pounds; Andy Matter, Upper Darby, 154 pounds; Lewis Craig, Bald Eagle Area, 165 pounds.

Orange Bowl to be fun say Paterno, Rodgers

MIAMI (UPI)—Opposing coaches Pepper Rodgers of Kansas and Joe Paterno of Penn State promised Monday to turn the 35th annual Orange Bowl football classic New Year's night into a fun game.

Paterno and Rodgers, two little guys in a football age of big men, big stadiums and big money, emerged from the annual Orange Bowl coaches luncheon, as a pair of blithe spirits.

"We're going to let our kids have some fun," said Rodgers. "We might look bad but we'll look bad playing it loose."

Paterno, even smaller in stature than Rodgers, voiced the same philosophy. "We'll take a lot of chances and it's going to be a lot of fun," the Penn State coach promised. "A college boy only plays about 30 to 31 times so he ought to enjoy it."

Before going back to the practice field where the action is considerably more serious, the rival coaches ribbed each other for the benefit of about 750 Orange Bowl committee members and many of Miami's professional leaders.

"I'll tell you, Joe," Rodgers said to his opponent. "We're going to throw the ball a lot and we have a lot of secret plays. We won't gamble on fourth down but that's not a promise."

Paterno countered with, "It's too bad about Pepper's speech impediment—he can't listen."

The fun approach to football and the big game promised a wide open, high scoring contest for a sellout crowd of about 78,000 and a national television (NBC) audience.

Rodgers, as a sophomore quarterback for Georgia Tech, beat Baylor with a field goal in the final minute of the 1952 Orange Bowl game. His sixth-ranked Kansas team this year went 9-1 to share Big Eight Conference honors with Oklahoma. It was Rodgers' second year at Kansas. Paterno boosted the Nittany Lions to their first perfect, 10-0, season in 11 years in only his third year at the helm. As the practice sessions began tapering off to limbering up drills, both teams were pronounced in top physical conditions. Penn State is rated a 2-1-2 point favorite.

Grocers urged to attend meeting on food stamp program in courthouse

STROUDSBURG — Food merchant responsibilities and benefits under the Food Stamp Program will be discussed by officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service at a special meeting in the main court room of the Monroe County Courthouse Jan. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Food merchants in the county wishing to take part in the program scheduled to start here Feb. 3 are invited to attend the briefing.

Philip B. Hearn, Northeast District Director for CMS Consumer Food Programs, said that his representatives will conduct the meeting for interested grocers.

Hearn cautioned grocers who fail to attend this meeting that they run the risk of not being authorized to accept food stamp coupons by the time the program opens.

Authorization of food merchants — both retail and wholesale, will be handled by the Consumer and Marketing Service.

Retail grocers must be authorized before they can accept coupons from participating families. Before a grocer is authorized to accept coupons, he must agree to abide by the regulations of the food program.

Under the program, families

Department of Public Welfare, exchange the amount of money they would normally spend on food each month for USDA food coupons.

In addition, they receive an amount of coupons free of charge to help them buy more food. The coupons are spent like cash for any food, at the authorized retail stores.

A recent modification in the program makes it possible for first time participants and those who rejoin the program after a specified time, to purchase coupons for one-half the regular price during the first month.

This provision is designed to enable participants to more easily make the transition to the stamp plan and take care of whatever back bills they may have.

In addition to Monroe, 22 more counties in the state have been designated as food stamp areas and 40 counties are now operating the program.

Nationally, more than 2.6 million people in 1,200 areas are expected to benefit from the program by the time all designated areas are in the program.

Stroudsburg council passes budget, increased spending

STROUDSBURG — A $409,715 budget for 1969 was unanimously adopted by the Stroudsburg Borough Council in a special session 7:30 p.m. Monday night.

The budget, which calls for no increase in taxation, yet has increased expenditures over 1968, was unchanged since council presented the budget to the public earlier this month.

The 1969 budget is $107,000 over 1968's budget which totaled $302,336.

While expenses are set at $409,715, the anticipated revenues total $409,800. The 1968 budgetary revenues had been estimated at $310,710.

The unchanged tax rates are: Real estate and occupation at 17 mills; one per cent earned income tax of which the borough receives one-half per cent; one per cent real estate transfer tax of which the borough also receives one-half per cent and the $5 per capita tax.

The borough anticipates receiving a total $85,000 from the new one per cent earned income tax.

While the budget is up and the taxes remain stable, most municipal employees will also be given a raise.

Per capita tax, $12,500; Realty transfer tax, $6,000; real estate and occupational taxes, $131,000 and $6,000 in taxes from previous years. The borough also anticipates $20,250 in grants from the federal and state governments; $7,500 in fines and $3,000 from the county for highway improvement.

Estimated expenditures for the police department next year is $84,086 and a capital outlay for the police department of $34,300 which includes $15,000 for new traffic signals and $18,000 for new parking meters.

The parents were notified by Capt. Mitchell, assistant officer in charge, Marine Corps Training Center, Wyoming.

Mrs. Michaels had no information other than her son had been killed.

A Marine on duty at the training center said he was not authorized to release any information on the Marine's death.

County approves bi-weekly pay

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners Monday announced that county employees will receive payroll checks on a bi-weekly basis, effective Friday, Jan. 3.

Commission Chairman Elwood Hintze said that among other things, the county's ever increasing business necessitated the move. The vast amount of business is keeping the bookkeeping machine tied up constantly, he said.

He also said that the clerks in the bookkeeping department were having to work overtime, both at night and on Saturdays, in order to keep up with the weekly pay system. Under the weekly pay system, the county was issuing more than 11,500 checks per year.

The new system will decrease the number of checks and will give the clerks five extra days to get the checks out and save wear and tear on the bookkeeping machine, said Hintze.

The commissioners approved nine liquid fuel payments totaling more than $43,000. Smithfield Township received two payments totaling $11,694 for two projects, one of which was a special project involving the road to the Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport.

Other townships receiving liquid fuel payments were Hamilton Twp., $7,500; Polk Twp., $7,000; Paradise Twp., $4,000; Tobyhanna Twp., $4,000; Coolbaugh Twp., $4,000; Tunkhannock Twp., $2,500, and Mount Pocono, $3,245.

With the payment of the liquid fuel allocations, the commissioners said that they would have a balance at the end of 1968 in the liquid fuel fund of approximately $11,000 plus $10,000 in bonds.

Next year's allocation is expected to be in the neighborhood of $160,000 in liquid fuel funds to the county from the state.

The commissioners announced acceptance of a bid of $5,320 from L. Robert Kimball, consulting engineers, Ebensburg, Pa., for aerial photography of the county.

The photography will be made at the request of the tax study committee for re-evaluation of real estate.

A second bid of $7,150 was received from Vernon Graphics, Allentown, for the work.

A bid of $5,051, less two per cent, was accepted by the commissioners for a document filing cabinet requested by the office of the Prothonotary. The bid was submitted by A. Fred Treher. The two per cent reduction is provided if the bid is accepted within ten days.

A second bid was submitted for $5,237 from the Diebold Corporation.

An allocation of $600 for 1968 was requested by the West End Fair Association.

Commissioner Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis took the occasion at Monday's meeting to enter a statement into the records concerning Treasurer Thomas Joyce's remarks at the salary board meeting held on Monday, Dec. 23.

At that time, Joyce made the remark that he did not wish to be treated as a commissioner, claiming he was left to find a solution as to the salary of Douglas Williams. The newly-appointed administrator of the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission.

In her remarks read Monday for the minutes of the meeting, Mrs. Shukaitis stated that at no time did she ask the treasurer to act as a commissioner.

She explained that the treasurer is placed on the Salary Board by Pennsylvania law, not by the commissioners of Monroe County. "Any responsible treasurer who initiates action in a given salary board meeting on a controversial subject, or who elaborates at great length upon a proposed employee or proposed salary, obviously does so voluntarily."

Hospital to lease x-ray gear

EAST STROUDSBURG — Sophisticated new X-ray equipment, valued at $80,000 will be leased by the General Hospital of Monroe County, the Board of Directors decided Monday night during their regular meeting.

The directors also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Jeanette Davis with regret. Mrs. Davis has been a director for a large part of the hospital's 53-year history.

New officers are: Dr. John L. Rumsey, president; Dr. Morton Spinner, vice president and Dr. L.W. Hunsicker, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Shukaitis gives stand on planning administrator

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioner Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, who opposed granting the newly-appointed planning administrator a $10,000 salary, Monday formally entered her objections in the minutes at the commissioners' meeting.

Mrs. Shukaitis voted against granting Douglas Williams a $10,000 salary, with a provision that the salary will go to $11,500 after six months.

Mrs. Shukaitis noted that she had made the statements during an executive session attended by the county commissioners, county treasurer, county solicitor and members of the planning commission on Dec. 16.

In her prepared statement, Mrs. Shukaitis said:

"My main concern is and has been to help avoid destruction of our natural resources and to assure protection of the people from bureaucracy."

"You, the members of the planning commission, did not request membership in this group. When asked to serve, doubtless you accepted because you felt you wanted to serve your community. You have been very patient and conscientious in the work of planning in the County, and in the decision to find a new person for the planning office."

"Contrary to published reports, I did not alert the news media to the name of the proposed person for this appointment, nor do I know who did. I would not expect you to be credited or blamed for an action which you did not take, nor do I expect to receive same."

"I called our Scranton Office of Community Affairs to learn what are the qualifications for a planner in charge, with the capacity now required to obtain any federal planning grant. They were listed as follows:

— "Masters or doctorate degree in planning, not less than three years experience."

— "Masters or doctorate in related field, not less than five years experience."

— "Bachelor's degree in planning, not less than six years experience."

— "Bachelor's degree in related field, not less than seven years experience."

"If we pursue the present course of hiring a non-qualified planner, we must do so cognizant of the fact that while we may obtain a consultant for a 701 or similar program, 30 per cent of the total work must be done 'in house' by a planner-in-charge. This means hiring another man besides the consultant if no qualified person is in our employ at the time."

"Is the planning commission taking into consideration that Tobyhanna Township is the only township in the county that is working on a comprehensive plan and that Jay Snyder is performing the '30 per cent in house' contribution?"

"Will not all the townships, etc., require professional planning help to complete their comprehensive plans and would not the county's provision for a professional planner help these townships, rather than force each one to hire outside planners in addition to consultants?"

"Regarding length of time required for advertising to find a qualified planner, it was pointed out to me that Wayne County recently hired a planning director after two to three months advertising and that his salary is in the vicinity of $12,000 to 13,000 annually."

"As to the salary of an office administrator, it must be noted that the salaries of the three major department administrators in the county are presently at from $7,200 to $7,500."

"They are Lawrence Butz,

Pleasant Valley Manor; William Fetherman, chief assessor, and William Reaser, chief clerk.

"Under normal circumstances, and if Monroe County were just any seventh class county set anywhere else in Pennsylvania other than its location in conjunction with the Tucks Island Projects, without all the national publicity and the rapid changes that are expected to come about here, I probably would feel that a non-professional would suffice for this position."

"However, in view of the above, and our responsibility to prepare for long after we are dead, I simply cannot see any way other than hiring professional personnel to assure the highest degree of protection for this beautiful area for hundreds of years to come."

National events, local news mix second quarter

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles recapping the local news which captured the headlines during 1968.)

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Major local news stories during April-May-June period were overshadowed by national crisis and concerns, namely - the assassination of Martin Luther King and President Johnson's statement that he would not run for re-election in April; assassination of Robert Kennedy in June and local reaction to increased gun legislation.

Three labor unions went on strike, two against the Stroudsburg Bell Telephone plant, simultaneously, the one per cent earned income tax was adopted by many municipalities and townships; the Broadhead Creek flood control project was advanced; a rash of vandalism intrigued police and disgusted area residents.

Such annual events as graduation ceremonies in area schools, primary elections and Memorial Day ceremonies were headlined.

It was also a period of transition for many local officials who were appointed, resigned or retired from years of service.

Heading the list was Dr. Frank Sills, appointed as president of East Stroudsburg State College by Gov. Shafer, replacing Dr. LeRoy J. Kochler.

Edward K. Driebe was named new chairman of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission; Dr. John Wildrick was named assistant to Sills at ESSC.

There were changes in the social service agency roster as Melvin Sweeney was appointed executive director of Children's Bureau; James B. Groner was elected president of county chapter of Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children and Mrs. Dorothy Oliver resigned as executive director of Keystone Heart Association in Monroe County.

Retirements included Edward Hughes, president of Hughes Printing Co., and a fellow worker, Richard Sprague; three teachers from the Stroudsburg Area Schools, Frances Everitt, Clarence Transue and Ruth Everitt; Clifford R. Gillam, chairman of Board at Buck Hill Falls honored.

Leonard Ziolkowski resigned as executive director of the Monroe County Planning Commission.

An equally "heart-felt" resignation in the community was that of Clement Wiedmeyer as head of the music department of East Stroudsburg High School, followed by the final band concert of Robert Zeller, band director at the high school.

The enactment of the one per cent earned income tax was finalized by East Stroudsburg, Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap borough council; Stroud Township, Smithfield and Price townships, H.A. Berkheimer Associates was hired to be collecting agency in the county for the tax.

The Broadhead Creek flood control project got a potential push when Buck Hill Falls agreed to present land for a dam at Buck Hill Creek, one of three to be constructed.

Among the unsolved crimes included vandalism cases, especially one case where the Stroudsburg Cemetery was vandalized; a hunt for a mystery woman apparently discontinued as reports were negative after a search was made for a woman who was reported seen by passing motorists walking beside Business Route 209, apparently seriously injured.

Other newsmakers during April were:

Two men escaped the county jail, one was killed in a violent crash near Mountainhome shortly after the escape; a series of investigations and precautions were formulated by the sheriff's department;

Stroudsburg Bell Telephone Plant was picketed by Communications Workers.

Primary elections had a poor turnout of voters; trout fishing season opened and fishing pros, including Gov. Shafer, mobbed the Poconos and vicinity.

All Pocono received approval for a new post office; official ground breaking ceremonies for new Wyckoff-Sears shopping and parking complex; Pepsi-Cola first tenant at Stroud Township industrial park off Route 209; Allstate Development Inc. of Liberty N.Y., wanted to get in on Lincoln Avenue Redevelopment project.

May

First organized Law Day observance was held locally with Judge Arlington W. Williams; Bishop J. Carroll McCormick dedicated and blessed new 1.45 million Notre Dame High School; Delaware Water Gap Lions chartered; Schwelker speaks at ESSC graduation; Memorial Day parades and ceremonies throughout the county.

June

Erie-Lackawanna Railway station at Cresco closed forever; Mid-Atlantic Music Center concert series and school starts; rash of major accidents at intersection of Rt. 208 in Marshalls Creek starts a series of investigations from state and federal agencies for solutions to hazardous road conditions.

Stroudsburg Area Merger Study becomes state pilot project financed by $20,000 Appalachian funds; garden apartment project of one million dollars starts on Greentree Drive, East Stroudsburg; March of Truth Crusade and its "cloud cathedral" in area for a three week stay; area couple shot by neighbor in "mad shoot" in Mount Pocono.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 12-31

PEACE AND PROGRESS IN 1969

Looking into tomorrow, Peace is our goal, Progress our aim.
Both can be achieved through the efforts of people . . .
Peace through reasoning, brotherhood, love and understanding . . .
Progress through leadership, talent and diligent hard work!

The future is filled with rich promise; and progress in our community is a continual happening . . .
new retail complexes, industries of every type, better roads, excellent schools and expanding resort facilities are making this a better place in which to work, live and play.

Let us hope that in 1969 a lasting peace will come to the world . . . the crowning glory of mankind to insure the dreams of this and future generations.
